CARNEGIE RUGGED AT AGE OF SEVENTY

Seems Still to Have Many More Years in Which to Dispose of Immense Fortune.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
New York, Nov. 24.—Andrew Carnegie, bestower of libraries, capitalist and philanthropist, author and philosopher, will enter upon his seventieth birthday tomorrow. He was born Nov. 25, 1837, that the light first came to his eyes over the hearth of his native Scotland. Mr. Carnegie is in as rugged health as in all these years he had been free and wild in the land of cakes by brae and burn, instead of amassing millions to give away with a conscience pang that it is not good to die rich. Mr. Carnegie will celebrate his birthday quietly in his Fifth avenue home, with his wife and daughter. Mr. Carnegie has given away nearly $150,000,000 of his colossal fortune and declares that he is still ready to give. Libraries have been reared all over the land with his capital, and many others are in process of erection. Not only in the matter of libraries has Mr. Carnegie invested his money for the public good, but he has expended many millions along other educational lines. There have also been innumerable contributions to charity, but in this matter Mr. Carnegie does not take the public into his confidence.
The scheduled executions are those of the Rawlins, father and sons, whose case has attracted attention throughout the country. Alf Moore, the negro accomplice of the Rawlins, is to be hanged next Friday. The elder Rawlins is to go to the gallows three days later and at the end of the same week the two Rawlins boys are under sentence to pay the penalty of death. There seems to be some chance that the Rawlins boys may obtain a reprieve or commutation of sentence, but the case of the father, already carried to the highest tribunal in the land, appears hopeless.
The execution of the father, his sons and their negro accomplice will mark the end of one of the most merciless and deadly feuds ever recorded in the annals of this country. These men were convicted for the murder of two little children, Bob and Apple Carter, in an attempt to exterminate the family of W. L. Carter.
Carter and Rawlins had been powerful revival preachers in the Methodist church. About twenty years ago they married into wealthy families and settled on adjoining plantations. The Rawlins family comprises three boys and two girls. Carter had one son and three daughters. The quarrel between the two families originally started among the children and was a most trivial affair. But the elders took it up and then began the feud. Finally the trouble reached the fighting stage and it was mutually understood that trouble must ensue whenever members of the two families chanced to meet.
One evening the cattle in the Carter barn made a great rumble. Bob and Annie, two of the children, ran out to learn the cause of the trouble. Carter had reached the porch when he saw the children shot down by men armed with shotguns. Suspecting that it was but the forerunner of the murder of the entire family, he ran into the house and barred the doors. The children had been murdered outright. To still their dying cries the murderers had ground their heels into the children's faces and kicked them until their ribs were broken. All night long the murderers besieged the house, hoping for an opportunity to kill the occupants. Mrs. Carter's hair turned white in the night and the rest of the family became nervous wrecks.
On the strength of a statement made by Moore, the negro, the crime was charged against Rawlins and his sons. Moore and another negro named Turner, Rawlins was in another town on the night of the murder, but he had plotted the crime. Moore said the instructions were to kill every member of the family and to burn the house. He said he had been paid $100, and that he and Turner were given permission to keep all the money that might be found in the building. They were tried, with the result that the elder Rawlins, his sons Milton and Jesse, and Moore were sentenced to the gallows, and Leon and Rawlins and the negro Turner to life imprisonment.

VICTIMS OF FOOTBALL ARE FROM SCHOLASTIC RANKS

New Rules Result In More Minor Injuries But Fewer Deaths—Less Than A Dozen Fatally Hurt.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Chicago, Nov. 24.—With scattering Thanksgiving day games yet to be played in various parts of the country, the football season of 1906 practically closes today. A review of the season shows that the sport this year has claimed fewer than a dozen victims. These figures are considerably below those of former years and go to prove pretty conclusively that while the new rules probably result in more minor injuries the number of fatalities is greatly lessened. No fatality is recorded among the players on the big university and college teams. The deaths have been confined almost entirely to the scholastic ranks.
The list of players to whom the game was fatal follows:
John Cowell Kennedy, nineteen years old, of Troy, N. Y., captain of the Lawrenceville school eleven of Trenton, N. J., died of a ruptured blood vessel after being thrown in a practice game on Sept. 27.
Cameron Paulin, twenty-two years old, a second-year student of the School of Practical Science of Toronto, died as a result of a kick in the head sustained in a game with Toronto university, Oct. 4.
W. Glynn Ellis, twenty years old, a member of the second eleven of Toronto university, died of injuries sustained in a game on Oct. 12.
Charles Suydam, nineteen years old, was fatally injured in a game between the high school and boarding school elevens of Morristown, N. J., Oct. 13. Suydam was tripped, fell heavily and broke his neck.
Lewis A. Grissler, a senior at Ohio Wesleyan university at Delaware, Ohio, fell dead on the field after running down a punt, Oct. 16.
James Curtis, twenty-five years old, was killed in a scrimmage in a game at Great Falls, Mont., between the Great Falls team and the Fort Shaw Indian team, Nov. 10.
Charles T. Hyatt, sixteen years old, student at College Hill Military Academy of Cincinnati, Ohio, died Nov. 19 of blood poisoning in arm and thigh, fever resulting from football game.
In addition to these football seasons has contributed to the deaths of several other persons, who were run over by cars while hastening to a game, dropped dead from excitement, or were killed in fights growing out of games.

FOUR HANGINGS AND A METHODIST CONFERENCE

Quiet Town Of Valdosta, Georgia, Has Big Program For Next Week—Executions Are Of Feudalists.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Valdosta, Ga., Nov. 24.—A Methodist conference and four hangings all within a period of a week is believed to be too much for an ordinary quiet town. So at least the people of Valdosta believe, and they would like to see one or the other of the attractions postponed. But the way things look at present it appears very probable that the whole program may be carried out according to schedule.
The scheduled executions are those of the Rawlins, father and sons, whose case has attracted attention throughout the country. Alf Moore, the negro accomplice of the Rawlins, is to be hanged next Friday. The elder Rawlins is to go to the gallows three days later and at the end of the same week the two Rawlins boys are under sentence to pay the penalty of death. TALKS ON ROADS
TO THE FARMERS

EZRA GOODRICH OF MILTON
WRITES COMMUNICATION TO GAZETTE.

HE HAS HIS OWN IDEAS

Does Not Believe in State Aid—Thinks That the Money Should be Raised and Used at Home.

Ezra Goodrich of Milton has written an interesting communication to the Gazette on the subject of good roads. This important question is worth considering in all its phases. Mr. Goodrich does not believe in good roads being built by state aid. He also takes a sly dig at the automobile and motor cycle owners, but his main idea—good roads—is predominant throughout the entire article. His communication is as follows:

Good Roads.
"We are glad to see this important question called up and publicly discussed."

"We helped lay out the first road in Milton when the land still belonged to Uncle Sam, before the town was named and while the red men were still hunting here."

"We have been driving on the roads of Rock county from that time now, and we have thought and said and done much in regard to roads."

"We think the farmers first and above all others, are interested in and benefited by good roads, and as a rule they do more work and pay more taxes than any other class to make the roads. To benefit the farmers to the full extent would require that all of the roads should be good, and this would benefit everybody else and all alike. We would not be in favor of state aid for roads, for first we would have to raise the money and send it there, instead of using it here at home."

"To pay a special tax to the state for roads, and then look to the state for the money to make our roads, we would expect to see four-fifths of it spent in red tape, and the balance used to make some main thoroughfare an objectionless road, at a cost of not less than three to five thousand dollars per mile, which would preclude its ever being built to one in twenty of our farms."

"The farmers would be benefited ten-fold more with a road that reached from the market to every farm that cost one-tenth as much per mile. A farmer in hauling his products to market must size his load to suit the worst and hardest place to pull it between his farm and the town. To haul it through the mud and over the hills until he reached some main thoroughfare which state aid had made like a boulevard would be of but little benefit to him. He would there be likely to meet somebody with a motor bicycle or an automobile, who fool-like would want to show off a little spurt of speed and would scare his team off into the ditch, and likely tip him over against some overhauling electric pole and break his precious neck. We would not lend the county or our town for money to make the roads. We would raise the money by a tax as it was needed to be used, and would expend it as the electors directed under the supervision of the town supervisors, so the people all could see how their money was used."

"It is true that all the roads in a town could not be made good at once. We would ask for an appropriation first to fix the roads that were most used; but, we would continue asking until all the roads in the town were made reasonably good. It will cost much more to make some of the roads good than others in the town, but all will be benefited by having them all good."

"It might be well, if it can be legally done, to tax the town for half the cost of improving a road, and the abutting land owners for half. The more it might cost to make the roads in some part of the town good the more it will increase the value of the land there."

"It would tend toward equalizing the value of the farms and land in a county or town."

"Again, we say we are glad to see the people awakening and thinking and talking and acting along the line of having good roads."

"The roads of a county indicate the height to which the civilization has attained."

"We are over eighty years old and are nearly through traveling on or talking about the roads."

"A large proportion of all the roads make the roads good in the town where we live. We have devoted our time each town meeting day to getting a special appropriation for gravelying the roads for the past thirty years."

"We have done what we could to in the town have been gravelying now, and we are gratified to hear the people who come from every direction say they can tell us by the good roads."

"Good roads can and will be made much faster and better than Milton has done, although Milton has done well and is gravelying them yet. The work in Milton has been experimental and of the most primitive, but others will profit by the experience Milton has had."

"A landable rivalry will grow up all over the county in regard to good roads. They are coming."

"Let the people of all professions and the press speed on the good work of making and having good roads."

EZRA GOODRICH,
"Milton, Wis."

A MOTHER'S STORY

A pretty little story full of heart interest to the world of mothers comes from Middletown, Ohio. In that city at 310 Grand Ave., lives Mrs. Dan Doty and her two little children. Sometime ago Mrs. Doty was taken sick with a severe affection of the kidneys and it was only great effort and a mother's boundless love that enabled her to care for her household and her little ones. She had tried every remedy she heard of in a vain effort to regain her health and was quite discouraged when friends advised her to try the famous Cooper remedies, which she did with some reluctance.

A letter recently received by Mr. Cooper tells the balance of the story. "I was hardly able to drag myself about the house I felt so bad," it said. "The terrible pains and soreness in my back rendered me unfit for anything. I was also very weak, my appetite poor and I could not sleep. The Cooper medicines have entirely relieved me and now I eat well and sleep soundly."

"I feel well and strong again and can now care for my little ones and my household duties. I heartily recommend these wonderful remedies to every suffering mother."

Cooper's New Discovery is the medicine that has done so much for Mrs. Doty and which is making such a record curing the worst cases of kidney and stomach trouble. It is the best of all tonics and is absolutely pure. It sells for one dollar per bottle, and Cooper's Quick Relief, an external remedy which is used in connection costs fifty cents. They are sold only by E. B. Heimstreet.

HOARD'S INVOCATION
OF MUSE Melpomene

Atkinson Poet Sings of Stirring Deeds of Janesville Men in the Northern Woods.

"Happy the modern camping party with its official sylvanizer who pre-arranges in lasting prose and immortal verse the little episodes which make life in the woods with a band of merry fellows one grand sweet song!" Best Hoard of Ft. Atkinson is the duly appointed poet of the Ke-No-She-De Club of Janesville which has its lodge in the wilds of Forest and Langlade counties. He sings of:

Grant Fisher—lastlander.
His skinned old curly bill.
His two fine deer are hanging up
To advertise his skill.

There is St. John the saintly sportsman,
His head is full of lux,
An' he can tell you anything
That you're a mold to ax.

There is Rouse the curly headed;
His wavy hair is gone;
You ought to see him perform
The gentle little fawn.

There is Appleby, our William;
Well known in sucker time.
An' two fine bucks are hangin' up,
Wild William all to blame.

There is Parker, fat and rosy;
He goes to Lily lake,
An' all he ever does up there
Is try his thirst to slake.

Harry Carter was the starter;
He shot a doe and a buck;
You ought to see him smile
Since the changin' of his luck.

There is Schwartz, the old expressman,
You ought to see him scold the deer
By puttin' on his coat.

Dame Fortune isn't smiling
And Kemmerer is sick;
We now suspect the trouble is,
He shoots his gun too quick.

Philo Thomas shot mergansers
He never had to mind,
For every where he went his whiskers
Served him for a blind.

Valentine the steady hauler
Is troubled with remorse,
He washed the dishes, sawed the wood
And labored like a horse.

How to Build Tobacco Sheds
Then he marvels in the Jefferson County Union that there are not more settlers "as the land is rich and will raise as fine tobacco, so Soverhill says, as any land in Rock county."

Soverhill gives us great talks on tobacco. He claims he can build tobacco sheds for $40 an acre. His plan is for Jefferson county farmers to buy ten acres of standing timber in this region for $10 an acre and cut lumber and elm for other timber and ship it to their farms.

"He says farmers make a great mistake in building high, narrow tobacco sheds. They should be not over 10 feet high at the eaves, very wide and not packed with lumber. They should be covered with No. 30 common lumber and patent roofing paper. This prevents damage to the tobacco from lack of ventilation—that is, it will ventilate at the top. He would have top ventilators like a passenger car."

Mr. Soverhill is one of the prominent tobacco buyers at Janesville and says he never saw a tobacco shed that was built right. He claims they are all too costly—too high and too narrow.

The Great Discoverer
"We are having fun with our president Wm. Appleby, chief of police of Janesville. He and Dr. St. John packed their camp stuff and walked in here from Wabeno, twenty miles, six years ago and located this camp and ordered the logs cut and rolled up in the spring. This was in February, 1900, and the thermometer was 20 below zero. They packed in a canvas boat and examined Roberts lake, about nine miles northeast of here, and then came here. Mr. Appleby prospected this lake alone the previous summer. In the February they came here were about twenty Indians under Curly Jack—Chippewas—camped under a shake-down near the Crane lake thoroughfare with a ten-foot open space in the middle at the top for smoke and ventilation. Curly Jack was out on the ice fishing with only a pair of trousers and a bickory shirt; the buttons of his shirt were gone, exposing his red breast to the bitter wind. He was warmly dressed for him. Their manner of cooking the fish was to throw an armful of the frozen pickers into a cauldron kettle and by rapid stirring when done to eat the bones to the bottom. Each one then scooped up a tin dish of the flaky fish which formed the top layer."

"William likes to spear suckers and as a side light on his favorite pastime I submit the following stanzas which have been endorsed by the camp."

"The air is an old one—'The Wearin' of the Green.'"

"We've a Ke-No-She-Ea sger,
He'd a stature short and thick,
An' of tin thousand men there's none
Can bate him wud a stick."

"When our sojer started spearin'
None but suckers would he take,
An' howly Moses bow them suckers
Tried to lave the lake."

"He was spearin' wud a partner
Well acquainted wud the place,
An' t'wixt them he landed one
It struck him in the face."

"Now our William has a timper
That would plover harm a child,
But sure this constant latherin'
Was makin' of him wild."

"Then his partner threw a big one
At our William's tender ear,
An' then besides he criticised
His holdin' of his spear."

"Now this crowdin' of the mourners
Made our William awful sore;
You ought to heard his sentiments
Go boundin' up the shore."

"Then to indicate his feelings
He gave an awful stroke,
An' wapped it he landed one
Till his spear was nearly broke."

"Incidents of the Chase
"We have been after deer four days and have five deer hung up. Most of us, however, have not yet had a shot."

"The deer here are great travelers."

Whereat County Clerk Howard Lee fairly beamed with pleasure and approval. The applications Friday were made by the following parties: Joseph E. Bow and Catherine Mueller, both of Beloit; Ole H. Srendel and Betsy A. Forsum, both of Cooksville; town of Porter; Hugh Mawhinney and Lizzie Minnis, both of the town of Harmony; James H. Ryan and Clara M. Pound, both of Janesville; Harry C. Marshall and Susie Jungblut, both of Janesville.

Lieut. Perry Says There Are No Bald Heads in the Arctic Region.

The people who come back from Klondike testify to the fact that no native bald heads are there. The evidence that the cold climate kills the germs that eat the hair off at the root. Lieut. Perry, who went to the Arctic Regions, gives the same evidence. Newbro's Herpicide, has the same effect as the cold climate. It kills the germ that eats the hair off at the roots, and the hair grows again. Herpicide is the first hair remedy built upon the principle of destroying the germ that eats the hair off. WILL ORGANIZE
NATIONAL UNION

LOCAL MEN MAY LAUNCH BROTHERHOOD OF RAILWAY CLERKS.

MATTER BEING AGITATED

Freight Depot Employees' Station Agents and Roundhouse Office Workers as Members.

The matter of organizing a union for men employed in clerical positions on railways is being quietly agitated here and it is probable that a brotherhood, which may be national in scope, will be launched in the near future. Among those interested in the proposition are clerks at stations between here and Elroy on the North-Western road and between Madison and Rockford on the St. Paul line. It is rumored that letters have passed back and forth recently regarding a meeting for organization. The name of the body would probably be the "Brotherhood of Railway Clerks" and those eligible for membership would be freight depot and roundhouse office employees, station agents and yard clerks. The union would be affiliated after the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen or the Order of Railway Telegraphers.

CLUB IS LAUNCHED
VERY AUSPICIOUSLY

Janesville Adds A Beefsteak Club to Its Numerous Social Societies.

With a membership of thirty-five the Janesville Beefsteak Club was officially organized last evening in the ordinary of the Myers Hotel after a beefsteak dinner at which thirty beefsteaks, weighing a pound and three quarters each, had been consumed washed down by large quantities of Hlawatha mineral water. With Hon. Ogden H. Peters in the chair as presiding officer and W. W. Watt as temporary secretary, the Janesville Beefsteak Club was organized. Speeches made by all the guests present and plans laid for coming dinners, one a month the year around. Owing to the size of the ordinary the membership of the club was limited to forty members and a committee on membership, entertainment and management selected consisting of the president, secretary and treasurer George McKee, T. S. Nolan and George S. Parker. On the permanent organization Ogden H. Peters was chosen president and David Atwood secretary and treasurer. It was arranged that names of prospective members be handed to the committee and the five remaining places be filled by lot before the next dinner which will occur in December. The club will in no way conflict with the Twilight club, the dates for the dinner evenings being so arranged as to preclude any possibility of conflict. The following is the list of charter members: C. S. Putnam, F. S. Sheldon, Geo. Simpson, Dr. Farnsworth, A. E. Bingham, F. E. Clemons, George McKee, R. H. Van Cleave, H. H. Bliss, W. W. Watt, F. C. Members of the Saint Cecilia Male Chorus of St. Mary's church celebrated the anniversary of the patron saint of their organization with a party at the home of their director, Prof. W. T. Thiele, last evening. A bountiful spread was served in the early part of the evening and a delightful musical program followed. It consisted of the following numbers:

Fleur des Alpes—Piano Solo.
.....Miss Camilla Thiele
Shepherd's Song as encore.
Cavalleria Rusticana—Piano Solo.
.....Mr. Frank Gibbs
Schumann's Treumerei as encore.
The King of the Deep—Solo.
.....Mr. John Murphy.
Arrival of Santa Claus—Piano Duet.
.....The Misses Camilla and Catharine Thiele.
The King of the Waves—Bass Solo.
.....P. E. Neuses
Adrift as encore.

Prof. Thiele rendered several improvised piano and cornet duets—a sort of "one man band"—which created much merriment. Jeanita was sung by the whole choir and after a few more homes of their funds to be used by the Associated Charities in helping the poor and needy, the young ladies who are selling tickets are not inclined to accept as full and sufficient, the excuse, "Not going to be in town that day." No invitations have been issued, nor has the canvassing committee been able to see half the people whom they are expecting to support the enterprise. Next week the tickets will be placed on sale at the People's Drugstore. The dance, itself, is to be a brilliant and highly enjoyable affair, if the elaborate preparations in progress may be regarded as a criterion.

Inasmuch as the primary object of the Charity ball to be given at Assembly hall, Thanksgiving night, Thursday evening—is, as the name given to the social event implies, the securing of funds to be used by the Associated Charities in helping the poor and needy, the young ladies who are selling tickets are not inclined to accept as full and sufficient, the excuse, "Not going to be in town that day." No invitations have been issued, nor has the canvassing committee been able to see half the people whom they are expecting to support the enterprise. Next week the tickets will be placed on sale at the People's Drugstore. After refreshments were served, they departed wishing Miss Frances many happy birthdays.

HUNDRED WENT TO
FORT ATKINSON FOR BEST GAME OF YEAR

Many From Here Are Rooting for Local High School Football Team This Afternoon.

Ninety-six people went to Fort Atkinson on the 12:45 train over the North-Western road for the annual Janesville-Fort Atkinson high school football game this afternoon. The number included the team and substitutes and a dozen rooters from among the fairer sex. All carried ribbons or banners of light blue and megaphones were much in evidence. Not for years has a larger or more enthusiastic crowd gone out of the city and the greater number are confident of victory. That the Bower City team is one of the best playing under the new rules is unquestionable, but still Fort Atkinson has for the past several years proven a lucky winner. The hopes of the locals for scores are based on the forward pass, sidekick and criss-cross plays framed by Coach Hammerson.

Personnel of Team
The team is lined up as follows: le, Connors, It, Tjernin; lg, Woodworth; c, Howland; rg, Church; rt, Cassidy; re, Langdon; lb, D. Wright; rbb, Horkley; qb, C. Wright; fb, F. Nuzum. Those who went as substitutes are Cunningham, F. Jensen, Phelps, F. Granger, Boyd, J. Roberly and J. Nuzum.

List of Rooters
The following were among those who accompanied the team: Rev. R. C. Denison, Rev. J. H. Tippet, D. D. Manross, Walter Carle, George Casey, George Sennett, Kenneth Jeffris, Will Poenichen, Elbridge, Fifield, Vincent Koch, Reno Koch, F. Green, George Denison, Charles Tippet, Douglas McKee, Roy Crissey, Leo Atwood, Leon Myhr, Floyd Bennis, John Connors, Fred Hans, Wallace Mills, Forest Fleck, Perry Strang, Elsworth Strang, Clarence Brown, Harold Yahn, Lionel Burgess, John Underwood, J. STRIKERS IN RIOT TROOPS CALLED OUT

VIOLENCE AT HAMILTON, ONT.,
TOO MUCH FOR POLICE.

SOLDIERS FROM TORONTO

Disturbance Is Caused by an Attempt to Run Street Cars—Bullets Are Fired Over the Heads of the Mob.

Hamilton, Ont., Nov. 24.—An attempt by the Hamilton street railway to start its cars Friday night led to riotous scenes which the police were powerless to quell. The mayor appealed for troops and at midnight word was received from Toronto that 100 regulars were on the way to this city.

The strike began the first of this month. Strike breakers were brought to the city and on November 12 an attempt was made to resume the service. The strikers and their sympathizers smashed the cars and frightened the strike breakers out of town.

A determined effort was made again Friday to resume the service on the principal streets. Rioting began immediately. A large crowd gathered at the corner of King and James streets between eight and ten o'clock at night and smashed the windows of several cars. The crowds fled.

Attack Radial Station.
The rioters turned their attention to the street car radial station, at the corner of Gore and James streets. All the windows in the building were smashed. The police were unable to cope with the situation. The mob gradually dispersed at midnight when the report of the departure of soldiers from Toronto became known.

The police used their revolvers on one occasion during the evening when they were hard pressed. They fired over the heads of the crowd to frighten them.

The troops arrived from Toronto at 12:40 a. m. They are under command of Col. Otway. The infantry is supplied with what is termed "galler" or short range ammunition and the cavalry with swords.

Troops Sent Quickly.
Toronto, Ont., Nov. 24.—Col. Otter, in command at the fort, received a request Friday night for troops to quell disorders at Hamilton. The call was signed by the mayor. One hundred regulars were at once entrained and left for Hamilton at 11:15.

SCHMITZ DENIES CHARGES.

Mayor of San Francisco Lands and Isn't Arrested.

New York, Nov. 24.—Mayor Schmitz of San Francisco who arrived here Friday on the steamship Patricia, said there was absolutely no truth in the charges made against him and that he will go to San Francisco and court the fullest inquiry. When the Patricia arrived at quarantine, Mr. Schmitz was shown newspapers containing reports of the charges against him in San Francisco. He said:

"There is not a scintilla of truth in the charges. The fact is, it is an attack made against me by my political enemies because I made a strong fight against District Attorney Langdon, who was defeated for governor. His friends are now taking their revenge."

No attempt was made to arrest Mr. Schmitz when he came ashore from the steamer. An automobile was waiting for him and he entered it and left the dock at once, presumably to go to his hotel.

Veteran Newspaper Man Dies.

Elmira, N. Y., Nov. 24.—Royal R. Soper, for many years publisher of the Elmira Gazette and secretary and treasurer of the New York State Associated Press during its entire existence, dropped dead at his home in this city Friday night of heart disease. He became associated with the Gazette in 1870 with David B. Hall.
